Introduction

Outcomes of the Royal Commission into Family Violence, the Senate Inquiry into Out-of-Home Care, the Royal Commission to Investigate Institutional Responses to Child Sex Abuse, and the National framework for protecting Australia’s children 2009–2020 outline clear actions that need to be taken in Australia and Victoria to provide children with the services they need. These reviews also set the scene for major reforms within Victoria.

The Department of Families, Fairness and Housing is responding to better meet the needs of some of the most vulnerable people in our community – Victorian children, young people and their families. In three years, our workforce has grown by a quarter, and there are currently more than 2,100 child protection practitioners in the state.

The work of a child protection practitioner is challenging, complex and rewarding. Practitioners need to have specialist child welfare knowledge and the ability to engage children, young people and their families. They also need to work in a statutory environment where they must exercise legal delegations and functions pursuant to the Children, Youth and Families Act 2005.

The Child Protection capability framework was co-designed with child protection practitioners and leaders across the department. It has been developed to provide practitioners with a holistic, contemporary approach to their learning and development that enables them to grow and develop the capabilities they need over their career in child protection.

The capabilities outlined in the framework are those that:

- the practitioner may be demonstrating already in their work
- describe what’s required at different levels and in different roles.

The Child Protection capability framework materials that accompany this guide have been developed to support professional development and career planning conversations and to help practitioners identify targeted learning and development opportunities.

The purpose of this guide and how it can be used

This guide provides a clear picture of the capabilities, personal qualities, knowledge and skills that child protection practitioners and case practice support workers must demonstrate in their day-to-day work. As practitioners gain more experience, move into new roles or advance to higher levels, different levels of capability and depth of knowledge and skill is expected.

The Child Protection capability framework can be used to identify the knowledge and skills required to do their current job well and to support future development and growth into different roles. This guide provides information and tools for how to apply the framework in practice, supervision and professional development as well as providing a basis for an effective performance and development plan and career conversations.

When to use the capability framework

The capability framework can be used:

- to agree on learning and development needs as part of the professional development process
- as a guide to the capabilities required for effective practice
- to identify capabilities required for a specific or different role and to align capabilities with the objectives of the Children, Youth and Families Act
- to identify workforce development needs
- to guide development of learning programs.

Table 1 summarises who the capability framework is for and how it can be used.

Table 1: Who the Child protection capability framework is for

Who is it for?	How can it be used?
Managers	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Identify the strengths of an individual or a team to enable sharing of 'best practice' across teams, areas and divisions • Decide on learning and development programs that develop or enhance a team's capabilities • Inform learning and development plans for individuals • Support staff to identify learning and development opportunities and career planning activities
Child protection practitioners and support workers	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Identify areas of strength and how to maintain or leverage these • Guide discussions about skills/capabilities to develop and how to do this • Select suitable learning and development opportunities • Confirm what is expected in your current role, what high performance looks like, and the capabilities required to progress to the next level

Professional development

Learning and development opportunities should be realistic, available and achievable during the performance cycle.

The capability framework informs the professional development process. It encourages staff to identify their learning and development needs and opportunities for ongoing development.

Learning pathways are designed to guide individuals through mandatory learning and professional development programs required at different stages of their career. The department has identified specific learning pathways for child protection practitioners that can be accessed at Child Protection Learning Pathways \(sharepoint.com\)

<https://dhhsvicgovau.sharepoint.com/sites/DPW/SitePages/Learning-Pathways.aspx>

For more information to support your learning and development refer to the department's dedicated Career management program SharePoint page

<<https://dhhsvicgovau.sharepoint.com/sites/dffh/SitePages/Career-management-program.aspx>>.

Capability framework structure

The capability framework comprises core elements required in child protection practice and work:

- domains of practice describing key areas of capability for child protection
- core capabilities outlining capabilities that all staff are expected to demonstrate consistently for CPP2–CPP6 levels (these are aligned to the domains of practice)
- classification-specific capabilities outlining capabilities that CPP2–CPP6 practitioners demonstrate to the level expected of their CPP classification (these are aligned to the domains of practice)
- personal qualities and attributes outlining the six personal qualities and attributes considered important for child protection practice
- knowledge and skills outlining the 10 knowledge and skills considered important for child protection practice.

Domains of practice

The framework comprises four domains of practice that describe key areas of capability for child protection:

- Critical assessment and reflection
- Engaging others
- Delivering results
- Leading and inspiring.

Core capabilities and classification-specific capabilities are identified under one of these four domains of practice (see Table 2).

Capabilities

Capability defines what a staff member needs to be able to do to meet the requirements of a role. It is an integration of knowledge, skills and personal qualities.

The Child Protection capability framework outlines five core capabilities for CPP2 workers, with seven core and 10 classification-specific capabilities for CPP3–CPP6 workers. The CPP2 capability framework does not include classification-specific capabilities due to the nature of the CPP2 role.

All staff are expected to demonstrate the core capabilities and display the classification-specific capabilities in line with their classification and level of practice (see Appendix 2).

Table 2: Core capabilities and classification-specific capabilities by domain of practice

Capability	 Cr itical assessment and reflection	 Eng aging others	 Deli ivering results	 Le ading and inspiring
CPP2 Core capabilities	Accurate reporting	Child-centred and family-focused relationship-based practice Collaboration Knowledge sharing	Business operations
CPP3–6 Core capabilities	Risk assessment and analysis Case planning review and case management	Child-centred and family-focused relationship-based practice Collaboration	Problem solving Culturally informed practice and safety	Practice leadership
CPP3–6 Classification-specific capabilities	Critical inquiry Standardised reporting Reflective practice	Knowledge sharing	Business operations Evaluating and delivering program improvements Packaging of support	Collective leadership Developing others System leadership

Levels

Each capability is detailed in the following sections. The capabilities by domain and the capability cards describe how each capability progresses through five levels. These capability levels are consistent with the Child Protection Practitioner (CPP) grade and value range descriptors in the Victorian Public Service Enterprise Agreement 2016.

Each level of capability assumes competence at the preceding level. Further, each role may vary in proficiency at different levels, depending on the nature of the work.

The five capability levels are:

Level	Descriptor
CPP2 Supporting practice	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The CPP2 capability framework is for case practice support workers only • Developing and building their practical experience under supervision
CPP3 Beginning practice	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Defines the baseline level of capability of child protection practitioners and may describe those early in their career or operating in foundational roles • Developing and building their practical experience in this area and can demonstrate this capability in their work • Demonstrates application of this capability in some settings and situations
CPP4 Advanced practice	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Has significant practical experience in this area and demonstrates this capability consistently in all settings and situations • Supports, advises and guides other colleagues on the application of this capability in their work
CPP5 Leading practice	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Being known as an expert in this capability • Consistently demonstrates this capability in all settings and situations • Actively coach's colleagues in the application and practice relating to this capability • Engages and leads colleagues and clients in this capability
CPP6 Expert practice	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Significant and deep experience in applying this capability • Recognised around the state as an expert in applying this capability with colleagues and external stakeholders • Strategically plans for how colleagues and staff can continue to develop in this area and successfully operationalises these plans

Personal qualities and attributes

The capability framework is underpinned by the six priority personal qualities and attributes that can be developed throughout an individual's career. This list is not static and will develop over time; it represents the personal qualities and attributes that are important to child protection practice.

Attribute	Description
Adaptable	Is flexible and adaptable to change and accepts and integrates new information as a matter of course
Emotionally regulated	Regulates emotions in the face of distressing and alarming circumstances to ensure the best outcomes for clients
Open and curious	Adopts an open and curious approach to child protection work
Decisive	Makes rational and sound decisions based on the facts and alternatives
Resilient	Responds thoughtfully and reflectively to distressing information Appropriately seeks guidance and support Communicates effectively with others to undertake child-centred work in the face of challenging situations
Takes initiative	Works proactively in creating solutions and solving problems

Knowledge and skills

The following list is not static and will develop over time. It represents the knowledge and skills that are critical to child protection practice.

Personal quality	Description
Understands child development	Identifies normal developmental stages within a child's life Understands attachment and trauma theories as they relate to child protection practice
Identifies risks to children	Identifies factors that place a child at risk of abuse or neglect Articulates this risk verbally and in writing to a range of stakeholders including parents, children and other professionals
Understands the legislative and statutory framework	Understands and embeds the Child, Youth and Families Act in practice, including the core responsibilities and principles of the Act
Works confidently with families affected by drug or alcohol abuse	Demonstrates an understanding of the legislative, policy and practice requirements relating to families affected by drug or alcohol abuse and can apply these skills in practice
Works confidently with families affected by family violence	Demonstrates an understanding of the legislative, policy and practice requirements relating to family violence, and can apply these skills in practice
Works confidently with Aboriginal children and families	Demonstrates an understanding of the legislative, policy and practice requirements relating to Aboriginal children, families and communities, and the ability to apply case practice and decision making
Operates effectively in a fast-paced and changing environment	Routinely prioritises workload and activities Negotiates and suggests alternative (workable) approaches/strategies Summarises actions taken and future tasks Regularly checks in with key stakeholders to deliver high-quality outcomes for children and families
Confidently prepares for court	Demonstrates competence as a protective intervener in all jurisdictions and functions (courts, tribunals, oversight bodies, inquiries, interstate and interdivisional counterparts) Carefully considers consequences for potential courses of action to achieve safety for children Consults appropriately with supervisors, legal practitioners and others Uses an evidence-informed, methodical approach to preparing for, presenting at and initiating proceedings
Communicates risk and risk-related concepts verbally	Confidently conveys relevant ideas, information and assessments in a clear and articulate way Understands and meets the needs of target audiences (delivers the right information to the right people at the right time) Welcomes alternative views Sees things from others' points of view and confirms understanding
Writes professionally and convincingly	Prepares complex briefs, letters, emails and reports using clear, concise and grammatically correct language Edits written communications to ensure they contain the information necessary to achieve their purpose and meet audience needs

Ensures appropriate style and formats are used

Bringing your learning plan to life

Practitioners can use the Child Protection capability framework self-assessment tool to identify skills that are required in their current role, to explore how to progress to another role, to recognise their own capabilities and identify any gaps and to identify opportunities for professional development.

Capability framework materials

A range of tools and resources have been developed to help apply the capability framework. These include:

- a capability framework poster that describes each capability by domain (Figure 1 and Appendix 1)
- capability cards that demonstrate levels of proficiency by capability within each domain (Figure 2 and Appendix 3)
- success profiles to help you identify capabilities required to perform at a high level (Figure 3 and Appendix 4)
- an online self-assessment tool to help identify key strengths and development opportunities; aligned to each domain and capability by proficiency (Figure 4)
- a learning program guide.

Child Protection Capability Framework Self-Assessment Tool

Welcome to the Child Protection Self-assessment tool. This tool is based on the capabilities required of child protection staff as defined in the Child Protection capability framework available on the child protection manual.

The purpose of this tool is to assist you to identify your strengths and areas for development in your current role or a role you aspire to. You can use it to:

- Understand how you are tracking compared to the identified capability levels for your role, or for a different role
- Identify areas for development and tailored learning programs aligned to each capability
- Identify topics to explore in supervision discussions with your line manager
- Provide information for your PDP discussion or application to a new role in child protection.

The self-assessment will take approximately 20 minutes to complete. You can save and return to the self-assessment at any time.

The information captured in this tool is confidential to you. You may share the assessment report if you choose. The tool captures your name only to personalise your report – data will not be stored. Area and classification data is captured for reporting purposes only.

If you have any questions about the use of the self-assessment tool, you can contact the child protection learning team at childprotection.learning@dffh.vic.gov.au

Building capability

The capability framework self-assessment tool or capability cards help to determine the capabilities needed for a current or future role, and to identify opportunities for development.

1. Choose the role – this could be the practitioner’s current role or an aspired future role.
2. Review the capabilities listed for the relevant role profile (including required proficiency levels).
3. Complete a self-assessment – using the Child Protection capability framework self-assessment tool or capability cards, practitioners should review the capabilities and assess whether they currently perform at the proficiency level listed for the role:
 - Is the capability a ‘key strength’?
 - Do they perform the capability to a ‘satisfactory’ level?
 - Is the capability a ‘development opportunity’?
4. Discuss and explore the strengths and learning and development opportunities with the line manager and match these to the Child Protection Learning Pathways.
5. Record agreed learning opportunities in the practitioner’s professional development plan.
6. Regularly review progress with the line manager.

Contemporary learning practices

Contemporary learning theory suggests that formal training is not enough to embed essential mindsets, behaviours and practices over time. Rather, a range of learning approaches must be used.

In addition to formal learning programs and to get the best out of learning and development experiences, practitioners are encouraged to consider a range of learning opportunities.

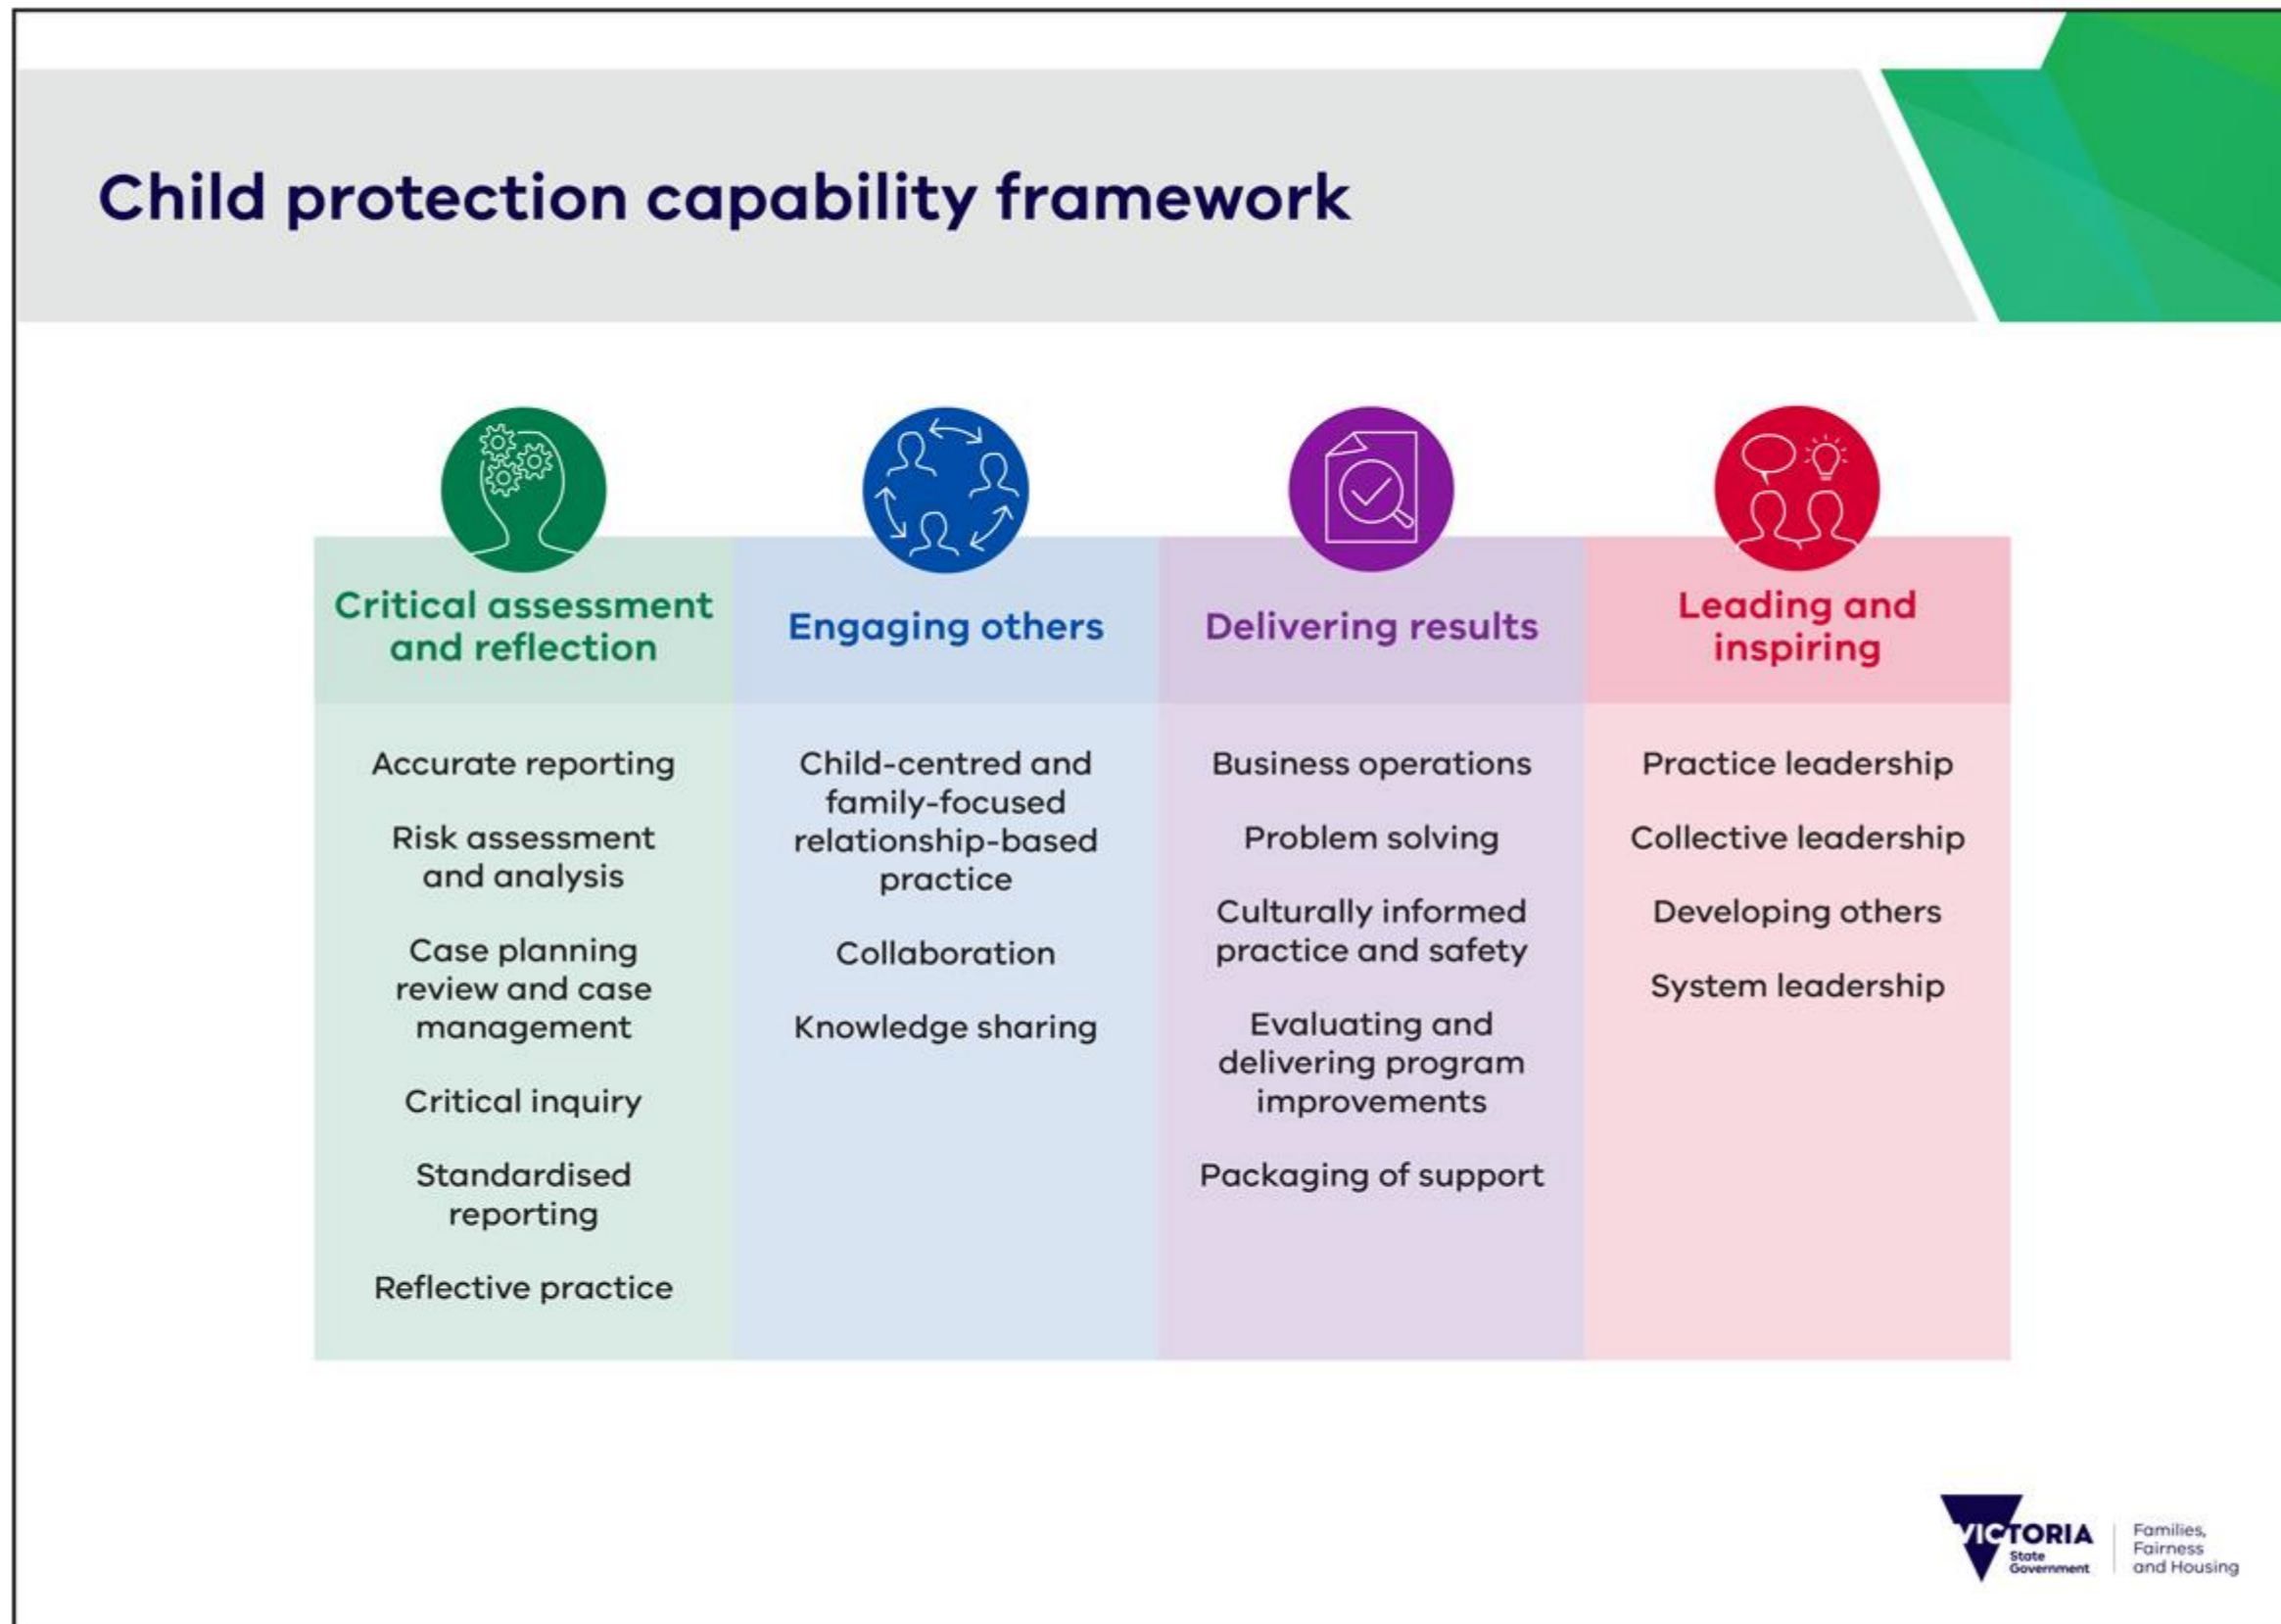

A detailed glossary of informal learning and development strategies can be found in Appendix 5.

Learning opportunities

Three distinct opportunities for learning are:

1. Formal learning – formal educational training, either online, facilitated or blended, and qualification-based learning (for example, a diploma, bachelor’s degree or master’s).
2. Learning from others – informal learning that occurs through exposure to others (including peers, managers and clients). This includes coaching, mentoring, communities of practice and facilitated reflective practice.
3. Job-related experiences – informal learning that occurs on the job. A high percentage of what we learn occurs through (intended and unintended) on-the-job experiences. The role of line managers is critical to the success of any learning strategy because they greatly influence the conditions and environment that can support application.

Notes

Appendix 2: Capability by classification

CPP2 Supporting practice: core capabilities

Critical assessment and reflection

Accurate reporting

- Maintains accurate and complete records of all work activities in accordance with legislative, departmental information security and privacy policies
- Prepares case notes and routine correspondence for others to consider
- Records information using the appropriate departmental systems (such as the Client Relationship Information System – CRIS)

Engaging others

Child-centred and family-focused relationship-based practice

- Facilitates supervision, access visits and family contact sessions in line with best practice principles and legislative requirements
- Seeks guidance and consultation from the team manager and other senior staff
- Applies and adheres to statutory frameworks

Collaboration

- Engages well with children and their families, other practitioners and teams, agencies, services and the community
- Establishes and maintains strong relationships with service providers and case managers
- Is polite and considerate in dealing with others
- Demonstrates the ability to engage with professionals in matters relating to transport and access
- Develops knowledge about relevant services in the area/division

Knowledge sharing

- Accurately records case notes on family observations and assessments of contact sessions, ensuring they are shared with the necessary team members and stakeholders in a timely way
- Contributes to, and shares information at, staff meetings and forums
- Actively listens and passes on relevant information

Delivering results

Business operations

- Records information using the appropriate departmental systems (such as the Client Relationship Information System – CRIS)
- Uses IT and web-based applications as required, and in line with departmental guidelines and privacy principles
- Seeks guidance from the supervisor, team manager and other team members when unsure of appropriate action

CPP3 Beginning practice: core capabilities

Critical assessment and reflection

Risk assessment and analysis

- Gathers information and draws insight from children, families and internal and external stakeholders
- Succinctly formalises an assessment by identifying the likelihood of risk
- Articulates and transcribes the assessment rationale with the family, supervisor, manager and other stakeholders (such as courts) as required
- Consistently applies and adheres to legislation, policies and departmental frameworks
- Seeks endorsement and review of risk assessment with their supervisor

Case planning review and case management

- Consistently applies, understands and adheres to legislation, policies and departmental frameworks
- Creates child-focused plans with the child, family and other stakeholders
- Ensures case plans are culturally aligned
- Drafts case plans in consultation with their supervisor
- Drives daily case management activities to implement the case plan
- Regularly reviews case progress and outcomes
- Seeks and shares further information to review case plans and progress if required
- Seeks information about potential referral pathways to support implementation of the case plan
- Uses action tables to analyse and assess case plans

Engaging others

Child-centred and family-focused relationship-based practice

- Works with the child as the client in the context of their family, facilitating client feedback and participation
- Works collaboratively with children and their families by facilitating client participation and feedback
- Uses strong verbal and written communication skills to convey key information clearly and respectfully
- Establishes and maintains effective relationships with children and their families, colleagues and stakeholders
- Listens to and demonstrates respect for alternative points of view
- Develops solutions in collaboration with children and their families, colleagues, supervisors and stakeholders
- Shares critical information across the system, both internally and externally, to ensure shared understanding and safety of the child
- Seeks guidance and consultation from the team manager and other senior staff

Collaboration

- Seeks out all relevant stakeholders involved with a child and their family to gather and share information
- Engages and consults with children, their families and relevant services
- Seeks out information about potential referral pathways to implement additional wraparound services
- Establishes and maintains strong partnerships with service providers and care teams
- Maintains currency of knowledge about all relevant services in their area/division

Delivering results

Problem solving

- Anticipates problems and reflects on potential solutions to improve practice
- Clearly communicates their thinking, analysis and assessment of the problem and options for resolution
- Prioritises (triages) problems according to the nature of the problem and seeks appropriate support, guidance and consultation
- Gathers information and draws insight from children and families to support and empower them to identify their problems and possible solutions
- Uses a collaborative approach through care teams and professional networks to support children and families through the problem-solving process
- Has an awareness of theoretical approaches that drive practice and problem solving

Culturally informed practice and safety

- Adapts engagement approaches to suit children and families from different backgrounds
- Demonstrates culturally informed practice that focuses on the child in the context of their family and culture
- Understands their own culture and how this may affect client engagement and participation
- Consistently applies and adheres to legislation, policies and departmental frameworks
- Consults with specialist positions to support culturally informed decision making

CPP3 Beginning practice: classification-specific capabilities

Critical assessment and reflection

Critical inquiry

- Thinks clearly and systematically, using self-awareness and analytical techniques to solve issues
- Applies a forensic lens to analysing issues
- Reflects on the root cause of issues, potential implications and resolutions
- Seeks guidance and consultation from the team manager and other senior staff
- Ensures issues are identified and reported appropriately

Standardised reporting

- Demonstrates knowledge to use reporting frameworks when recording case data
- Competently and efficiently uses departmental systems (such as CRIS) when documenting care solutions
- Records accurate and relevant data
- Seeks guidance and consultation from the team manager and other senior staff

Reflective practice

- Critically reflects on practice and articulates assessment outcomes with their supervisor
- Uses reflective practice to develop and build on existing knowledge and skills
- Seeks guidance and consultation from the team manager and other senior staff

Engaging others

Knowledge sharing

- Competently contributes to and shares information at staff meetings and forums
- Works with internal and external partnerships to achieve positive client outcomes
- Actively listens and passes on relevant information
- Identifies opportunities to do things better, and develops ideas with others

Delivering results

Business operations

- Competently uses departmental IT and recording systems and other web-based applications in line with departmental guidelines and privacy principles
- Applies awareness of the department's internal business practices
- Seeks guidance from their team manager, child protection administration and others

Evaluating and delivering program improvements

- Uses formal and informal networks to achieve outcomes
- Contributes to discussion for improved ways of working
- Considers activities, decisions and outcomes from the perspective of making things work better

Packaging of support

- Consistently applies and adheres to legislation, policies and departmental frameworks
- Researches the market and attains value-for-money and sustainable options
- Makes value-for-money purchases

CPP4 Advanced practice: core capabilities

Critical assessment and reflection

Risk assessment and analysis

- Competently works with complex cases
- Competently and autonomously assesses the nature and level of risk
- Competently and autonomously applies theoretical frameworks to make decisions
- Supports, advises and guides colleagues to understand and apply frameworks as required
- Listens and provides support, guidance and advice to peers

Case planning review and case management

- Coordinates and leads planning, review and management of their own case work
- Supports and guides colleagues with less experience

Engaging others

Child-centred and family-focused relationship-based practice

- Competently deals with complex situations autonomously
- Uses strong communication and interpersonal skills to resolve issues and ensure child safety and wellbeing
- Supports and guides colleagues with less experience

Collaboration

- Works with stakeholders to deliver outcomes in a collaborative way
- Supports and models collaborative practice with stakeholders and colleagues
- Models best practice conflict resolution by active listening and negotiating a course of action that is mutually beneficial

Delivering results

Problem solving

- Competently anticipates and identifies problems and appropriate solutions before consulting with manager
- Clearly and competently articulates and critically reflects on a problem and relevant solutions
- Considers suggestions, alternatives and feedback
- Uses a combination of theoretical and practiced risk assessment frameworks to address problems with families or practice standards
- Competently identifies and applies legislation when problem solving with families
- Supports staff and students to identify and resolve problems, identifying learning opportunities as appropriate
- Sensitively challenges families about consequences or outcomes using communication that is transparent, honest and family-sensitive

Culturally informed practice and safety

- Demonstrates ongoing learning of culturally informed practice and safety
- Develops positive partnerships with stakeholders of different cultural backgrounds
- Reconciles differing cultural perspectives in developing culturally informed assessments and decision making
- Supports, advises and guides other colleagues on culturally informed practice

Leading and inspiring

Practice leadership

- Supports, advises and guides colleagues through assessment and decision making
- Responds to the curiosity and questions of colleagues about risk theory, family assessment and the interplay with decision making
- Asks open-ended questions to facilitate the exchange of considerations and issues
- Provides support, supervision and guidance to students in theoretical and practice requirements and implications
- Demonstrates leadership and mentoring skills when working with students
- Competently carries out assessments independently and makes appropriate, informed decisions
- Clearly communicates the rationale and logic associated with decision making
- Leads discussions with colleagues and line managers in an open, informed, proactive and assertive way
- Provides alternatives and challenges approaches in a transparent, honest and family-sensitive way

CPP4 Advanced practice: classification-specific capabilities

Critical assessment and reflection

Critical inquiry

- Supports, advises and guides others to apply evidence-based frameworks to resolve issues
- Uses outcomes from critical inquiry to develop and build on existing knowledge and skills
- Applies understanding of standards, techniques, practices and approaches to issue resolution

Standardised reporting

- Supports, advises and guides others to use standardised reporting
- Supports the introduction of new technology and develops their own and others' skills to master new systems or system changes
- Produces a range of documents in a confident manner
- Ensures reporting obligations are fulfilled
- Recommends improvements to frameworks and systems to better meet client needs

Reflective practice

- Supports, advises and guides others to develop via reflective practice
- Critically reflects on their own practice and implements changes where required
- Competently demonstrates reflective and evidence-based practice in regular interactions with staff and stakeholders

Engaging others

Knowledge sharing

- Participates effectively in internal and external networks to promote appropriate action for clients
- Uses evidence-based logical arguments to share information and advocate for positive client outcomes

Delivering results

Business operations

- Supports, advises and guides others in effective business operations according to departmental guidelines and privacy principles

Evaluating and delivering program improvements

- Applies understanding of community, organisation and workforce needs
- Supports others to work more effectively and identify opportunities for improved service delivery
- Generates and shares ideas, encouraging others to reflect on activities and develop solutions

Packaging of support

- Effectively plans for purchasing services, managing to establish budgets and allocating finances to achieve the best outcomes

Leading and inspiring

Collective leadership

- Develops leadership skills via learning from the senior leadership team and other departmental learning and development opportunities
- Demonstrates active listening, empathy and emotional intelligence
- Offers constructive feedback to peers and team members
- Provides a balanced and informed perspective
- Recognises differences and works towards resolutions

Developing others

- Supports, advises and guides others to actively learn and develop
- Is aware of their skills, strengths and development needs, actively working to address skill gaps
- Supports others to identify their strengths and development needs

System leadership

- Supports, advises and guides others in how to create effective working relationships
- Encourages a culture of continuous improvement
- Understands the needs and concerns of the community and workplace

CPP5 Leading practice: core capabilities

Critical assessment and reflection

Risk assessment and analysis

- Provides case conferencing and case planning as required
- Authorises plans and decisions in relation to risk assessment, analysis and mitigation/intervention
- Provides support, guidance and advice to the broader sector and community partners/stakeholders
- Further develops and coach's others in their understanding of risk assessment and analysis

Case planning review and case management

- Leads planning, review and management of their own and team members' case work
- Provides case planning advice, guidance and support to others
- Guides and endorses the quality of team members' case plans in line with KPIs, practice standards and expected timelines
- Directly supports and provides input into cases where there is unacceptable risk to the child

Engaging others

Child-centred and family-focused relationship-based practice

- Assists others to reflect on interpersonal interactions, encouraging self-reflection to enhance relationships and communication
- Provides advice on client-centred practice to peers and team members
- Effectively responds to and manages complaints from children, families and other stakeholders
- Provides oversight and leads practice that is child-centred and family-focused
- Leads and articulates the department's position at meetings and forums using a conciliatory approach, focusing on client safety and wellbeing
- Liaises with principal practitioners and practice leaders about their learning and development goals

Collaboration

- Establishes and maintains strong relationships with their team, colleagues and other stakeholders
- Encourages participation from team members to contribute to decision making
- Actively manages conflict resolution in an increasingly complex and broad environment
- Models best practice in co-design, providing advice, guidance and expertise to internal and external stakeholders
- Further develops and coach's others in collaborative practice

Delivering results

Problem solving

- Creates an environment that allows for proactive and shared problem solving, supporting the team to use their strengths to resolve issues
- Encourages staff to use reflective practice and theoretical frameworks when analysing problems
- Understands the breadth and scope of problems and can identify when consultation is necessary
- Understands the broader issues and political dimensions of a problem

Culturally informed practice and safety

- Demonstrates leadership in applying culturally informed practice
- Develops and reviews case plans that reflect culturally informed practice, providing feedback, guidance and support to enhance awareness
- Demonstrates evidence-based, culturally informed practices across teams, programs and practice
- Further develops and coach's others in culturally informed practice

Leading and inspiring

Practice leadership

- Leads planning, review and management of assessment and decision making in line with best practice principles and legislative requirements
- Expertly translates best practice principles and legislative requirements to apply in practice
- Independently prepares and leads discussions consistent with best practice principles and legislative requirements in an open and assertive way

CPP5 Leading practice: classification-specific capabilities

Critical assessment and reflection

Critical inquiry

- Leads planning, review and management of issues in line with best practice principles and legislative requirements

Standardised reporting

- Reviews team documents including court reports, case plans and assessments, ensuring reporting obligations are met
- Provides critical feedback and opportunities for development
- Adapts data and develops reports for broad and varied audiences
- Supports the team to implement changes, upgrades and new technologies to improve business practice

Reflective practice

- Demonstrates expertise in reflective practice through interactions and communication with staff and stakeholders
- Facilitates reflective practice for team members

Engaging others

Knowledge sharing

- Represents the organisation and promotes awareness of systemic issues across teams, programs and practice
- Makes convincing presentations using a range of media to communicate key issues and options
- Articulates clear and persuasive messages

Delivering results

Business operations

- Creates awareness of any changes in business operations and ensures implementation of new practice/processes
- Identifies the processes, tasks and resources required to achieve business outcomes
- Translates the strategic direction into day-to-day activities

Evaluating and delivering program improvements

- Routinely reviews and manages services in response to changing needs
- Encourages the team to look for ways to improve outcomes
- Captures, communicates and shares innovative ideas with internal and external stakeholders as appropriate

Packaging of support

- Prepares program and complex budgets
- Reviews financial performance and implements remedies where issues are identified
- Reviews and monitors probity protocols, rectifying issues as they are identified

Leading and inspiring

Collective leadership

- Helps create a collective leadership culture where leaders are developed, valued and supported at all levels
- Actively shares and delegates responsibility to develop team members
- Fosters an environment where people feel their contribution counts
- Encourages, celebrates and rewards team performance and collaboration
- Manages team dynamics, supports productive working relationships and work-life balance and is actively involved in team issue resolution
- Selects diverse team members with strong and appropriate skills

Developing others

- Facilitates staff coaching, mentoring and practice development and provides leadership
- Encourages a learning environment for team members, promoting the need for gaining new knowledge, insights and skills

Appendix 5: Learning and development opportunities

Term	Definition	Benefits of use	Considerations for use
Action learning	An approach to learning involving individuals working on real projects with the support of a group that meets regularly to help members reflect on their experience and to plan next actions. (Source: Fry H, Ketteridge S, Marshall S 2009, A handbook for teaching and learning in higher education: enhancing academic practice , 3rd edn, Routledge, New York, pp. 391–401)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Promotes collaboration in learning • The group provides support and a safe environment for the learner to test ideas • Learning is tailored to the individual's and group's needs • Learning focuses on finding solutions to real problems • Encourages collaboration between individuals and groups 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Suitable only for people who are comfortable with self-directed learning • Requires a group of peers who understand action learning principles and can meet at agreed times • Usual duration of a program is four to nine months
Coaching	Individual or small group instruction. Usually a short- to medium-term activity to develop a skill or increase the knowledge base.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Improves skills and knowledge for the current job • Develops skills or experience to expand career prospects 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Must ensure the coach has appropriate skills • Need to determine the timeframe and desired outcomes • Progress should be monitored to ensure the objectives of the coaching are achieved
Communities of practice	A group of people who share a concern or a passion for something they do and learn how to do it better as they interact regularly.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Encourages employees to share knowledge and how skills can be applied to the workplace • Increases insights about the wider environment and how skills can be used and transferred to different settings • Builds networks of support • Especially useful when combined with reflection 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Requires a method to connect staff working in similar roles who are spread across various locations • Requires a space for continuous inflow of knowledge and learning • Requires a willingness to share ideas and learn from others
Conferences	Large meetings that focus on a theme or topic of special interest. Can involve a series of lectures or workshops and run for a day or more.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Brings current knowledge to groups • Individuals meet others who have the same interests • Offers networking 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Use to provide updates on specialised or expert knowledge • Professional development for specialist employees
Critical friendships	Relationships with people the employee considers friends and who they can trust to give constructive criticism when asked or when the friends think the employee needs it. Not any friend or colleague is automatically a 'critical friend'. It is important to address the purpose of reflection clearly and to give good feedback.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Learning is tailored to the individual's needs • Develops skills in reflection 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The 'critical friend' needs to be willing to reflect on the work situation with the learner • The learner needs to be able to trust the critical friend • Requires skills in giving and receiving feedback
e-Learning	Interactive, internet-based instruction (not face-to-face learning).	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Participants can learn at times that suit them • No travel costs 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Requires employees to have computer access • Doesn't suit some learning topics • Requires employees to be self-motivated learners
Extracurricular positions	Positions on committees, working within voluntary business networking, doing presentations and the like.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Helps to develop a wide range of skills and knowledge • Broadens the individual's understanding of branches, culture and operations 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Can be used to increase motivation
Feedback	Information about performance that helps individuals to identify areas for improvement and to improve in specific areas. It tells learners how their actual performance compares with planned performance or expected standards. Feedback can be in the form of constructive criticism or positive feedback. Feedback might be received from a variety of people.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Reinforces good skills • Helps support self-esteem when done well • Increases motivation • Increases skill level • Can be incorporated into regular supervision 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Needs to be specific and timely • Requires skills in giving and receiving feedback • Needs to focus on behaviour and not on personalities • Should be sincere, relevant and immediate
